OCCUPIER CASE STUDY

Ideal conditions for Umdasch's international business

In Abingdon, the Store Makers have 50 percent more office space available than at their previous location in Oxford. Both customers and employees benefit from this. A prototype area in the centre of the office is the heart of the new location. This is where shopfitting life pulsates – prototypes and furniture of current customer projects are presented on this constantly changing stage. State-of-the-art lighting and stage technology is used for this. Curtains provide flexible room separation and, depending on the setting, offer exciting views in and out.

The excellent infrastructure around the Abingdon Business Park is another reason for the move. Abingdon is highly accessible to and from London, Central and Northern England and is in immediate proximity to several airports. So these are ideal conditions for the international business of umdasch which is managed from the British office.

In cooperation with top architects and established store designers the umdasch experts in the UK accompany premium brands like Harrods, Nike, Stone Island, KaDeWe, NIO, Bucherer and many others.

The entire office is equipped with state-of-the-art meeting and conference technology and also creates space for a retreat with communication booths. The Store Makers not only work with global players in sports retail, but also stay fit themselves. For example, the team has two meeting rooms with treadmills and indoor bicycles to keep them moving during longer meetings. For all sports enthusiasts who come to work on their bikes & Co, showers have also been provided. Height-adjustable desks support healthy and ergonomic working.
